

As VP of External Affairs, I will develop and support programs that advocate for more opportunities and better facilities for students. The student body and the university will be a big part of the upcoming changes, as I plan to reach out and work with different internal and external organizations to accomplish what needs to be improved.

1. I plan to increase the number of personal and professional development opportunities on campus including, but not limited to, growing and promoting new or existing programs that encourage students' mental and physical health, as well as professional and personal growth.
2. I will reach out to multiple organizations seeking for more job opportunities on campus, allowing students to contribute towards their financial needs.
3. I will work towards creating a more inclusive and accepting environment for students, ensuring that students are happy, healthy, and feel accepted regardless of gender, ethnicity or religious beliefs.
4. In terms of professors' teaching performance, I will organize campaigns that hold the university and professors accountable for the feedback they receive from students at the end of every semester, in a transparent and communal fashion.
5. I aim to advocate for better facilities in classrooms and around campus, including (but not limited to) more plugs in classroom and public spaces, as well as more areas designated for study, prayer and leisure.

These goals are achievable; we want a better school, and if we work together we are capable of a better university experience that is aligned with our needs as students.
