

Greetings to all of you, faculty members and students. I'm thrilled to be here today as a candidate for the Faculty Director for Business Administration post. My name is Veer Kapoor. As a student, I have firsthand experience with the opportunities and difficulties we encounter, and I'm dedicated to zealously and honorably advocating our group's interests.

If elected, I pledge to:

Advocate for Student Needs: I'll speak up in the departmental community on behalf of students' needs and issues. I will work to make sure that our interests are recognized and taken into consideration, whether that means expanding student voices in decision-making processes, strengthening student support services, or facilitating better access to resources.

Encourage Diversity and Inclusion: The success of our department depends on embracing diversity and creating an inclusive atmosphere. My goal is to facilitate the success of underrepresented students by supporting programmes that honour diversity, advance equity, and foster inclusion for all parts of our community.

Encourage Faculty-Student Collaboration: In order to co-create a dynamic and inspiring learning environment, I will open up channels of communication and encourage discussion and cooperation between students and professors.

To sum up, I would want to say how sincerely I believe in representing the student body and collaborating with staff and professors to further the objectives of our department of business administration. Let's work together to create a community that is more robust, welcoming, and focused on students. I appreciate your thought and I look forward to serving you as Faculty Director for Business Administration.
